Summary

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of our college organized a workshop on Curriculum Design & Development from 03.02.2025 to 07.02.2025. The workshop aimed to develop curriculum for the Autonomous Stream.

In developing the curriculum attention was given to the systematic use of Bloom's Taxonomy. By categorizing objectives into cognitive levels such as remembering, understanding, applying, analyzing, evaluating, and creating, the curriculum provides a clear roadmap for both faculty and students. The outcome of this effort is to produce a course framework where the depth and breadth of each topic are clearly mapped out, allowing faculty to progressively build their knowledge and skills. Additionally, linking unit-wise content with corresponding textbooks and reference materials helps to provide clarity and coherence to the course. This structure not only aids the course deliverers in maintaining focus on core concepts but also assists the question paper setters in designing assessments that align with the learning outcomes. Ultimately, the workshop aims to facilitate an engaging and effective learning experience while ensuring that the entire syllabuses are framed in a right manner.
