Summary

The Faculty Development Programme (FDP) titled "How to Calculate PO-CO Attainment" was conducted to enhance faculty capabilities in mapping and assessing the effectiveness of academic programmes. The event saw participation of all the faculty members across various departments.

The programme commenced with an insightful inaugural session, where the keynote speaker emphasized the importance of outcomes-based education (OBE) and its alignment with accreditation standards. Experts facilitated sessions on defining measurable COs using Bloom's Taxonomy, mapping them to POs, and employing various tools for attainment calculation. Hands-on workshops provided practical experience with data analysis, enabling participants to address real-world challenges in educational assessment.

Outcome of the Programme

Participants will be able to

1. Analyze and compute CO and PO attainment effectively.
2. To demonstrate the ability to align course-level outcomes with program-level objectives.
3. Gain proficiency in using rubrics, assessment tools, and software for attainment calculations.
4. Develop actionable strategies to address gaps in CO and PO attainment.
